Asks Increase In Bond Purchases

The following self-explanatory statement was issued this morning by the local bond committee:

"The Andover Committee for the Sale of Defense Stamps and Bonds is not as yet aware of a satisfactory response on the part of the local community. In the first place, an analysis shows that there is approximately only a 50 percent participation in the payroll deduction plan as instituted in the local industries.

Demonstrate Air Raid Precautions

Andover people get a chance to watch Andover's wartime service units in action during an air raid next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, when such a raid will be dramatized on the stage of the Memorial Auditorium by the local defense committee. The wardens, auxiliary firemen, auxiliary policemen, and medical defense officers will be represented, and there will be a demonstration of procedures concerning incendiary bombs and demolished buildings.

A demonstration film, "Fighting the Fire Bomb," will be shown, indicating details of how the householders should prepare for and fight an incendiary bomb in the home. The defense committee, by the way, feels that this film should be available at any time free of charge to any club or group that wishes to exhibit it, and other such educational films are to be purchased for free distribution.

There will be a ten cent admission charge to cover the expense of purchasing such films, and any surplus income will be distributed among such organizations as the U. S. O. and the Navy Relief fund.

Tickets will be restricted to the seating capacity of the auditorium.

School Committee Report Published

Progress Indicated In All New Programs

"In some countries, children are not allowed to think for themselves; they are required to accept without question what their political leaders want them to be taught ... Our strength as a nation, during this war and in the period that follows, will depend more than ever upon the ability of the public school system to develop in all its children clear thinking, good character, an understanding of and a devotion to the rights and responsibilities of citizenship in a democracy ..."

So reported Arthur R. Lewis, school committee secretary, in the annual school report released for publication this week. His statement formed a theme for the other portions of the pamphlet. Progress in the fields of vocational guidance, practical arts, adult education, music, art, and a constructive reading program and the formation of new defense courses all indicated that Mr. Lewis was right; that Andover's school children, from Grade 1 up, are being exposed to a well-

Preparations For Elections Complete

With only three major offices being contested, and a smaller total number of candidates than has been the case in recent years, only medium interest is being shown in Monday's town elections. The contested vacancies are on the board of selectmen, both for the unexpired one year term and the regular three year period, and for the Board of Public Works.

The ten candidates for four vacancies are Roy E. Hardy and P. Leroy Wilson for the three-year selectman term; Edward P. Hall, Stafford A. Lindsay, William J. Snyder,

Raid Signals To Be Sounded Saturday

Andover's air raid signals, in conjunction with those of Lawrence, North Andover and Methuen, will sound over a period of 17 minutes Saturday, in order that the local air raid wardens may ascertain how audible they are in some of the more isolated sections of town. Whistles or sirens will be sounded from the Tyer Rubber company, the Shawsheen mill, Marland mill, Watson-Park company, and the central fire station.

The test will begin at 12 noon. There will be three series of short blasts for the alert, each two minutes long with two-minute intermissions between, until 12:10. A rest period of five minutes will follow, and then the all clear, consisting of two minutes of long whistle blasts. The test should be concluded at approximately 12:17.

POLICE BLOTTER

An attempted break at 3:45 a. m. Monday morning in the vacant house next door was reported to Andover police officials by Mrs. George B. Elliott. Evidently the burglar was attempting to steal metal fixtures from the building, as its plumbing is being removed for future occupancy. Officer Frank McBride and Reserve Officer Joseph O'Brien investigated, but found no trace of the thief nor anything missing.

William Schenk, Edgewood avenue, Methuen, was tried in Lawrence district court yesterday morning on charges of being drunk and operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor. He pleaded guilty to the latter charge and was held pending further investigation. Schenk was picked up at Shawsheen early Wednesday morning by Officer Arthur Jowett.

The following list of eligibles for the police department was issued recently by civil service headquarters in Boston: 1, Robert L. Prescott, 69 River road; 2, Francis J. McBride, 38 Chestnut street; 3, Charles A. Young, 86 Central street; 4, Robert V. Deyermund, Salem street; 5, George Hird, 79 North street; 6, Warren A. Maddox, River road.

Red Cross Will Make Surgical Dressings

Just received by the local Red Cross chapter has been a new ship- ment of materials for surgical dressings. These will be made at the John Dove school on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 to 12 and Thursday evenings from 7 to 10, beginning sometime in March. Workers are needed and all inter- ested will be welcome.

The War production board has in- formed the chapter that it does not wish sweaters to be knitted except where really essential, in order to save precious wool supplies and the time of women engaged in knit- ting them. Hereafter, sweaters will be knitted only for specific units on request of their commanding offi- cers. In this way, every sweater knitted will serve a good purpose and there will be no waste of ma- terial or time.

Recently received by the chapter was the following letter:

23 Crichton street,
Dundee, Scotland

Dear Madam,

I am writing on behalf of the Women's Voluntary Services to thank you very sincerely for your gift of jerseys and jersey suits.

So far this town has, fortunately, suffered very little from air raids, but we are keeping these gifts against anything that may happen this winter.

Please convey our thanks to all the members of your chapter who have contributed in any way in the making of these gifts for Britain, and tell them that it is very com- forting to know that we have so many good friends in America.

Yours sincerely,
Edith Lee, Secretary

War Services By Householders

New opportunities for women to assist in the national war program came to light, this week, when an extensive program of fuel conserva- tion was suggested by the state committee on public safety.

At the present time there is a 25 to 90 percent shortage of cut wood, our only native fuel. It is pointed out that a supply of wood is good insurance for emergency fire- place warmth, or possibly wood stove use, in the event of a bomb- ing raid and electric power failure. Furthermore, its use in late spring and early fall would save the aver- age householder a ton of coal every year. Local women can help the ef- fort by persuading every house- holder who can use wood to place his order at once, and to urge everyone who can, to cut his own supply.

A conference of agricultural agen- cies in the state has adopted the

SURVEY BY WARDENS

Beginning this week, your street warden will be visiting your house to ask certain infor- mation from you and to offer any advice which you may need with regard to blackouts and prepara- tions for incendiaries. He or she can be identified by the official warden's card. You are asked to co-operate with your warden so that the civilian defense prepara- tions of the town can be ade- quately covered.

following further tenets: 1. Patrio- tism does not call for a widespread home garden development in order to increase food production; it does, however, call for the conservation of all food crop products; 2. Gar- dens on all commercial farms should be encouraged; 3. Better gardens by experienced gardeners should be encouraged, but by be- ginners only when efficient super- vision is provided.

National Defense First; Local Expenditures Second

It's hard to figure a tax rate in advance, but conservative estimates show that with the finance committee's recommendations the chances are that our rate for this year would be not far from $32.00.

That is the highest in history. And do you know what it means? Just this: that in the year when more than ever before, the United States needed the financial support of the Town of Andover, this town spent more on its local government than ever before. It will mean that Andover wanted to go on spending as if there had been no war; it will mean that when this country needed money to fight this war, Andover was unwilling to skimp in order to help provide that money.

Do you think you can afford to pay a $32 tax rate? Some of you may think you can. Some of you who don't pay a real estate tax at all may think that those who do, can pay out $32 a thousand just as well as $29 or $27.

The little fellow next door can't afford to pay a higher tax. He's having quite a time paying for his home, and don't forget, his expenses have gone up just as much as everybody else's. Maybe the other fellow who owns a big house and who has a big income, can pay the $32 rate with comparative ease, but why not be patriotic? Why not cut the rate down by cutting out everything we don't actually need—and thus help the little fellow who can't pay more and also allow the other fellow who can pay more to save that extra money and put it into National Defense Bonds? Why not remember that this year more than anything else we want to win the war?

Proud of Our Choices?

We haven't done too well in the past, on the first Monday of March. True some of our choices have been good, but as we look back over the past year, we can't feel too proud of some of the men we have elected to public office.

Let's be sensible this year. Some of those who have been a discredit to the town this past year defeated men who would have done a fine job for the town, who would have administered town government wisely and well. Those men were defeated in many cases because of some reasons of which the town itself can't feel too proud; so-and-so was in back of them, and so-and-so was trying to run the town. Bosh! Let's get good men this time; let's choose the best man for the job. We haven't always done it in the past; it's pretty important this year that we start to do it now.

Learn Your Role

Next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings the workings of Andover's defense organization will be demonstrated on the stage of the Memorial Auditorium. If you're just an average citizen who has not yet participated directly in the defense program, it would be well for you to be present to witness this demonstration, for some day—and we still hope it never will happen, even these days when the chances seem less remote than they did a few weeks back—you may find yourself just an average citizen in an air raid, and you really should know what to do.

There are things you must learn, and this demonstration with the motion pictures which accompany it will provide an easy and an interesting way to learn. It won't be an evening wasted, for proper conduct in a raid helps greatly in minimizing the raid's effects.

This Sober Town

"Let's write a good long letter to Donald Spinney," a group of Merrimack Mutual employees said about three weeks ago. They thereupon sat down to their task, and, a few days later, Donald received what was certainly the longest letter he'd ever gotten, and besides, the longest ever sent to Parris Island, the South Carolina Marine base, at which he has been stationed.

To be exact, the letter was all of 40 feet long, and reached from one side of the roomy barracks to the other. It was written on a continuous strip of paper from a tabulating machine, and contained short messages and signatures from about 50 employees. It may be published sometime—in book form.

Now there may be no connection, and the quartermaster or whoever handles the mail in those places may not have as much power as we think he has—but the fact remains that, almost two weeks to a day, Donald was transferred to Newport, R. I.

It could have been worse, of course. His Merrimack Mutual friends might have sent it air mail—in a Flying Fortress.

Here's another way to help the boys in service, as received the other day in our lately-voluminous mail. The Citizens' Committee for the Army and Navy, Inc., urges the men and women behind the men behind the guns to contribute to the soldier-welfare work they are trying to carry on concerning company day rooms in barracks, recreation halls and equipment, newspapers and athletic and educational aids of any description. There is no conflict between this organization and the U. S. O.; they are meant to complement each other, each in its own particular province. You can contact the Citizen's Committee at 13 Commonwealth avenue, Boston.

It strikes us that never did we see so many women in slacks, thin and tall ones, fat and small ones, as have been strolling through town lately. Rumor hath it that they're all air raid wardens, but there just can't be that many of them. Rumor also hath it that they wear 'em because of difficulties arising from the reputed shortage of silk stockings.

But better slacks than slackers, we figure. Drat the enemy silk-worms and full speed ahead!

And the next time one of your Andover neighbors is boasting about how well he knows the town, ask him whether there are street car tracks on Main street between the Square and Chestnut street. Par is 38 seconds. If that stops him, ask him how many there are, and where they start and stop. If that stops him, ask him to describe a street car.

Andover's auxiliary policemen have lately been initiated into the mysteries of revolver shooting on the police range in the town hall basement. Incidentally, the police chieftains have discovered some mighty fine shots who never handled a gun before, at least locally. The targets are of the familiar circular pattern; a shot that lands just over the bull and a bit to the left, for instance, is called "nine at eleven o'clock." This "o'clock" business had us a bit mystified for a while, until we discovered that a bullet hole is judged according to how it would make a clock read if it smacked into it. From the way bullets from auxiliary police guns keep rattling off those bullseyes, it seems evident that they are well aware "what's o'clock."

To the Editor:

Sugar is being ploughed under in Florida when just one mill on Lake Ochecobee could supply the whole United States. In the southwestern states the beet sugar people are "raring to go," and in Cuba the peons would love to work more to produce more sugar. So what's wrong? This scarcity in the midst of plenty should make all public spirited people take thought. The O'Mahony investigation of monopolies found that if the monopolies are allowed to become too big and too powerful they can control the government—and in that event democracy will end.

In Mr. Eric Starbuck's recent "Analyst" he says: "If we go without sugar we want, we can know whom to blame. A relative of the Roosevelt family testifies that Peru can send us a lot of sugar if we lower the tariff, but the 'vested interests' are preventing this. It isn't hard to guess who the vested interests are. And isn't it a bit ridiculous to have any tariffs at all when we are looking for all the goods we can get? But those firms who have built up monopolies on tariffs don't mean to let any national needs interfere with their racket. And that isn't merely the sugar barons."

Yours very truly,
Edith R. H. Kitchin

Wardens To Rehearse

Andover's air raid wardens get another opportunity to rehearse telephoning incidents to the local report center during March according to the following schedule: March 5, Precinct 6; March 9, Precinct 1; March 11, Precinct 4; March 18, Precinct 2; March 16, Precinct 3, and March 19, Precinct 5.

Incidents are to be typed out by the local officials and left at certain homes, which will be indicated by some sort of temporary marking. A warden, on his rounds, will see the marking, and receive the incident from the householder. He will then repair to the nearest telephone to give his report; he must not use the phone in the house supposedly bombed. At the report center, the call will be recorded, and the staff there will note such things as the proper form of the information received, and how much data is contained in it.

Grange Hears Talk On West Point

One of the most interesting speakers to appear locally in quite a while addressed about 50 members, friends and visitors at Andover Grange 183 Tuesday evening.

John J. Brady of the Boston Sunday Post, who has two sons at West Point, discussed the life of a cadet there.

He paid especial tribute to General MacArthur and Capt. Colin Kelly, and to the school's founder, Col. Sylvanio Thayer of Braintree.

The value of a West Point education, he stated, has been set at $20,000, of which the parents pay only $300. This year, German, instead of French, is a compulsory language, since the great military leaders of the present time seem to be German. Technicolor pictures of West Point life were shown, and a Washington pie social was enjoyed. Arthur Lewis of the local Grange gave an impressive reading entitled "Respect for our Flag."

At next week's lecture, Mrs. Grace Allen Hogarth of Boston will speak on various aspects of the publishing business.

SATURDAY—Cecil Roberts At Abbot Academy

Tall, suave, cosmopolitan Cecil Roberts, sometime public official, editor, literary critic, war correspondent, author and lecturer, speaks on "A Novelist at Home" this Saturday evening at Abbot Academy.

Roberts began writing at the tender age of fifteen; since then, he has produced 14 novels, five books of poetry, three plays, five travel books, and an autobiography. During World War I, he was the youngest war correspondent on the Western Front. Afterwards, he became literary editor of the Liverpool Post and editor of the Nottingham Journal, the youngest head of England's oldest paper. He was also connected with the literature department of the Sphere, distinguished English review, and with the London Telegraph. His current book, "And So to Bath" gives a charming account of a place familiar to all devout Pickwickians.

The lecture will begin at 8:15 in Davis Hall, and admission of $1.00

SATURDAY—Chapple Conducts Phillips Concert

Stanley Chapple, distinguished English conductor, assistant to Serge Koussevitzky at Tanglewood in the Berkshires and head of the opera department at the Peabody Institute in Baltimore, will direct the joint numbers played by the musical clubs of Dana Hall and Phillips Academy in a concert Saturday evening in the Cochran chapel.

About 250 singers will participate in a program ranging from Gabrieli through Handel, Bach and Beethoven to the contemporary Randall Thompson. At Mr. Chapple's suggestion, the combined chorus will sing Bach's great Reformation cantata, "God, the Lord, is Sun and Shield." William Coffin, Jr., P. A. '42, will play with orchestra the first movement of Beethoven's First piano concerto.

The concert will begin at 7:15, and there will be a nominal charge of 25 cents to defray expenses.

MARCH 6—Concert By Community Orchestra

On Friday evening, March 6, the Andover Community Orchestra, George Brown, conductor, will present the second of its series of three concerts in the Memorial Auditorium. Encouraged by the warm reception given the presentation of "The Messiah" with the Andover Male Choir on December 5, the musicians of the orchestra have been rehearsing steadily in preparation for this concert and finding in their work a welcome escape from the concerns of a world at war.

The program will be composed of orchestral music arranged to offer an extremely interesting variety of types and periods, all well within the capacity of an amateur community orchestra. Joseph Pulvino, well-known Lawrence violin teacher, and the orchestra's concertmaster, will play the first movement of Mendelssohn's violin concerto, Op. 64. Another feature will be Haydn's symphony in E-flat major, No. 103, the famous drum-roll symphony, the first movement opening with a sustained roll on the kettle-drum, which gives the work its name. Balancing these two substantial numbers will be a suite by Lully, late seventeenth century French composer, simple yet melodic and strongly rhythmical music; the Karelia Suite by the great Jean Sibelius; and two Indian dances by the American composer, Charles Sanford Skilton.

Tickets for this concert at 60 cents apiece may be had on application to Mrs. J. S. Barss, Hidden Field, telephone 1317-J, and at the door.

MARCH 6—Bakery Sale For War Relief

Home-baked bread, cakes, pastry, candy, jelly, pickles—all should form a delicious way to help the boys in service. The war relief committee of the Shawsheen Village Women's Club, with Mrs. Arthur E. Steinert as chairman, will hold a bakery sale next Friday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock in the vacant store in the Aberdeen Apartments in Shawsheen. Money realized from the sale will be used to purchase wool to knit for the boys in the army and navy, and for other relief purposes.

Assisting Mrs. Steinert are Mrs. John M. Lynch, Mrs. George D. Norwood, Mrs. Harold G. Bowen, Mrs. Paul Chney, Mrs. Leon Field, Mrs. William W. Kurth, Mrs. Joseph A. Mulvey, Mrs. H. Lester Utley and Mrs. Walter N. Webster.

6:15 this evening.

Mr. Chipman has made many tours through Europe and the near East, and his talk should prove very interesting in the light of current interest in world-wide events. As a travel agent, he has conducted many tours to points of international interest.

tor, discusses the operation of a

All local women are invited and urged to attend.

This is the first in a series of meetings under the direction of Mrs. John D. Little. The following meetings will be on "Andover Schools in Theory and Practice," the March 5th discussion, at the library, being led by Miss Anne M.
Harnedy, principal of the Shaw-

Bond Purchases

and, furthermore, there is an apparent lack of enterprise on the part of local retail merchants in the furtherance of the sale of stamps.
As the Townsman pointed out recently, the example set in the 1918
Liberty Loan drives as yet is far from reached.

"Postoffice reports indicate a falling off in sales since Pearl Harbor, while, as a matter of fact, the national danger has distinctly increased since that time. The situation in which the country finds itself today demands added pressure and sacrifice as each week goes by,
and this means the co-operation of every individual in the community.
It has been said before, but it is no less true, that the basis of the sale of Defense Stamps and Bonds is cooperation of all the individuals in every community. Unless the war is won, the money in savings banks will mean little, which is to say that regardless of one's feelings or prejudices, a bond of the United States Government is still the best and the most patriotic use of one's funds.

"It behooves each of us, then, to do our part. There is no reason why every individual in Andover who is employed should not own at least one bond and be accumulating stamps against the purchase of further bonds. The committee has further plans on which it is working to bring the matter to the attention of everyone in our community individually. This is not yet possible, due to circumstances beyond our control, and, until it is, the committee urges upon you as civilians your co-operation in the one way it is possible for you to help directly; namely, by the purchase of United States Defense Stamps and Bonds.

Andover Defense Bond Committee:

Fred E. Cheever,
Guy E. Howe,
T. Augustine Farragher,
Nathan C. Hamblin,
Harold W. Leitch,
Ralph B. Wilkinson,
James Gould, Chairman."

Andover Swimming, Basketball, Wrestling Squads To Meet Exeter This Saturday

Andover Swimming

This Saturday, Andover and Exeter will clash in swimming, basketball, and wrestling, in each case the contest marking the climax of the season for the two schools. With Exeter already in the lead, as far as interathletics are concerned, by virtue of a 5-1 hockey victory on February 11th, Andover is eager to even the score with victories in at least two of Saturday's encounters.

In swimming Andover has a definite edge. With most of last year's undefeated team back this year, the Royal Blue tankmen have gone through the season with but one defeat—a drubbing by Yale Frosh—and have trounced Gardner High, M. I. T. Frosh, Worcester, Pawtucket, Harvard, and Dartmouth, most by overwhelming scores. A comparison of times would indicate superiority for Andover in almost every event, but the meet will be at Exeter in a strange pool, and the boys from New Hampshire are always good for plenty of surprises.

Basketball

The basketball game, to be held at Andover, should be a corker. Both teams are aggressive, both have had good seasons; Exeter has the edge on the basis of seasonal records, but Andover is out to avenge last year's defeat. Andover has lost to Dean Academy and Worcester, and has beaten Tilton, Lawrence, Bridgton, Northeastern, Harvard, Yale and Thornton. Exeter has been piling up tremendous scores with a mountain named Greene leading the pack; Andover's defense has been tight all year. The encounter should see some of the flashiest basketball in the history of this great rivalry.

Coach Frank Di Clementi's team has remained virtually unchanged all season. They are all veterans and most have played together for two years now.

Wrestling

The Andover grapplers have not been too fortunate this season, and Exeter is definitely favored in the grunt and groan line. With but one victory—a rout of Tufts last week—and several defeats thus far, the Royal Blue will be out to upset the dopesters. Coach Cy Carlson says his boys are in good shape, have gained experience and skill in the past weeks, and should do themselves credit on Saturday. Captain Al McNulty, at 128 pounds, is undefeated this season and should set the pace.

DEATHS

Miss Helen Christina Higgins, 62 Chestnut street, died Friday afternoon after a long illness. Until 1938, she had been employed for several years in a New York firm. Born in Andover, she attended the local schools, and graduated from Pynchard High school with the class of 1919.

Surviving her are her father, George A. Higgins, former town clerk; and a sister, Miss Gladys Higgins, a teacher in Rockport High School.

The funeral was held from the Lundgren funeral home Sunday afternoon, with services conducted by Rev. Herman C. Johnson, minister of the Free church. Interment was in the family lot in Spring Grove cemetery.

The bearers were Joseph H. Higginson, Charles F. Dalton, Harrison Brown, Jr., and Frederick Morrison, Jr.

Edwin E. Long, a resident of Andover for the past 5 years, died early yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter Pike of Lowell street, with whom he made his home. Born in Cincinnati, he had moved to Lowell while still very young, and was educated in the public schools there. He began newspaper work in Lowell, later transferring to Providence, R. I., where he worked for many years on the Providence Journal, rising to the position of city editor. Since the death of his wife, he had lived in this town.

Surviving him are a sister, Mrs. Edith Carson of Houston, Texas, and a brother, F. W. Long of Jeffersonville, Ind.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 from the home, with services conducted by Rev. Newman Matthews, pastor emeritus of the West Congregational church. Interment will be in West Parish cemetery.

In a double tragedy at their home on Whittier court sometime Tuesday morning, Mrs. Florence Shattuck, 53, wife of John, and her son, John Shattuck, Jr., 22, lost their lives due to what Dr. John J. Deacy, medical examiner, later pronounced carbon monoxide poisoning. Both had been ill for some time, and the son, student at a college in Boston, had been forced to drop his studies there for the remainder of the year.

Born in England, Mrs. Shattuck had made her home here for the past 40 years. Besides her husband, she is survived by two brothers, Benjamin Hibbert of this town, and James Hibbert of West Harwich; and two sisters, Mrs. Jennie Slack of this town and Mrs. William Hyde of Acushnet.

The double funeral was held this morning from the home of a niece, Mrs. John McGrath of Brechin terrace, with a high mass of requiem at St. Augustine's church celebrated by Very Rev. Thomas B. Austin, O.S.A. Rev. Henry B. Smith, O.S.A., and Rev. Matthew F. McDonald, O.S.A. of the local parish, and Rev. John J. Long, S.J., dean, Rev. Thomas Feeney, S.J., Rev. John Morgan, S.J., and Rev. Mr. Neil Donahue, S.J. of Boston College were seated within the sanctuary.

Delegations were present from the Catholic Daughters of America, the Sacred Heart sodality and the Catholic Youth Organization of St. Augustine's parish. A delegation from the class of 1942 at Boston College included James Stampton, president; Richard Callahan, vice-president; Richard Miller, Thomas Hinchey, Frank Hayden and John Burke.

Representing the Boston College club of Greater Lawrence were Robert Mossrop, president; James J. Reagan, past president; William L. McDonald and James D. Doherty.

Charles O'Neill sang the hymn "Pie Jesu" at the offertory and "Jesus Is Calling" as the bodies were borne from the church. The bearers for Mrs. Shattuck were Frank Irvine, James Shattuck, Benjamin Hyde, William Hyde and John McGrath; for her son, Walter McDonald, John McDonald, Patrick Doyle, Joseph Sherry, Martin Daly and George Connors.

An enrollment in the Pontifical Society of the Holy Childhood was received from Philip A. Crowley; perpetual membership in the association of St. Anne de Beaupre from Mrs. J. C. Crimmins; enrollments in the Jesuit Seminary Guild from the Boston College club of Greater Lawrence and from the Class of 1942 at Boston College.

Interment was in the family lot in St. Augustine's cemetery, where committal prayers were offered by Rev. Fr. Austin.

George Barrett Ripley, 78, died Tuesday afternoon at his home at 48 Central street. Surviving him are a sister, Mrs. Charles H. Cutler of Waban; and two brothers, Alfred L. and Philip F., both of this town.

The funeral was held at 2:00 this afternoon from the South church, with services conducted by Rev. Frederick B. Noss, pastor. Interment was in Chapel cemetery.

The bearers were Arthur W. Bassett, John Petrie, Fred Cheever, and Gilbert Cromie. Thaxter Eaton and Mr. Cheever served as ushers.

School Report

integrated program of the elements which make good citizens.

"Our enrollment will be affected somewhat by the declaration of war on Japan," says the report of Principal Eugene V. Lovely of the high school. "Several have already enlisted. Following the procedure adopted by most educational authorities, we have advised the boys to stay in school until their course is completed . . ." Several new courses, adopted during the past year, have formed a more than adequate inducement. First year Latin is currently being taken by 19 pupils; first year algebra, 20; type-writing by non-commercial students, 30; while 65 students are now taking an elective course in first aid. A two-year course in Spanish has already been requested by 30 pupils; home economics and science are proving more and more popular in these sternly practical times.

The preparation of a syllabus designed to formulate more closely the specific functions and programs of each department, as well as considerable development in the intramural sports program, are included in Milton C. Blanchard's report on the Junior high school. Enrollment and financial statistics show that it cost roughly $128.64 to educate each child in the public schools last year; $187,824.99 was spent during the fiscal year on an average enrollment of 1460 pupils.

Religious School Holds Meeting Here

THAXTER EATON

The Northern New England School of Religious Education held an interesting meeting here on the holiday, about 75 members and friends in attendance.

Rev. Frederick B. Noss, pastor of the South church, offered the invocation at the beginning of the morning session, and worship was led by Dr. Ruth R. Miller of Stoneham, executive secretary of the organization, assisted by Mrs. Beatrice Cahill.

Panel discussions were held on "What's New in Administration and Organization," led by Rev. Frank Grebe of Newton, and on "What's New in Young People's Work," led by Rev. Glenn Glazier of Whitinsville. "What's New in Children's Work," was an interesting forum led by Miss Margaret Winchester of Boston.

Dinner was served at the church by a committee including Mrs. Ralph Draper and Mrs. Clifford E. Marshall, chairmen; Mrs. George D. Abbott, Mrs. Winston Blake, Mrs. C. Edward Buchan, Mrs. William V. Emmons, Mrs. Irene Foster, Mrs. George Glennie, Mrs. Philip L. Hardy, Miss Marion Hill, Mrs. Herbert King, Miss Harriet Newman, Mrs. C. O. McCollum, Miss Dorothy Ruhl and Miss Ruth Whitehill.

The afternoon was spent in a tour of the Phillips Academy grounds and in organized recreation. Supper was served at the Baptist church by Mrs. Kenneth Thompson, Mrs. Everett M. Lundgren, Mrs. Joseph Thompson, Mrs. Fred Otis, Mrs. Everett Ward, Mrs. Clarence Johnson and Mrs. Philip Dodge. The waitresses were Marion Dennison, Rovena Eastman, Ruth McLaughlan, Vernie Livingston, Emily Livingston and Elizabeth Stone.

At the evening session, Rev. Elton E. Smith, pastor of the church, led the invocation, and Rev. A. Graham Baldwin, school minister at Phillips Academy, conducted the vesper service.

Thaxter Eaton, business manager of the school, was an active member of the committee conducting arrangements.

POLICE SCHOOL MONDAY

The next meeting of the auxiliary police corps will be held at Balmoral hall in Shawsheen next Monday night at the usual time. The change in location, for Monday only, is emphasized, and was made necessary by the fact that special war moving pictures are to be shown.

Miss Jean Davis of this town is one of the participants in a benefit show of the Charles school.

Blackout Here This Month

Andover will experience a test blackout on Sunday evening, March 22, according to local defense Chairman Alan T. Polgreen. Further details have not as yet been worked out, nor has the exact time of the test been determined. The test will apply, of course, to every building ordinarily lighted in town, and will be held in conjunction with the communities of Lawrence, Methuen, North Andover, North Reading, and Salem, N. H.

The defense committee, after a careful check, has expressed itself as quite satisfied with the extensive test given Andover's air raid alarm signals last Saturday. According to Leonard F. James, chief air raid warden, the fifteen-minute alert was heard in nearly all sections of Andover, Shawsheen and Ballardvale. Its audibility was not quite satisfactory in the region near the junction of South Main street and the bypass, and in a few other isolated sectors. Action to correct this condition, possibly including the installation of small sirens, is expected to be taken shortly.

Cecil Roberts Tells Of Pilgrim Cottage

People in Andover who have contented themselves merely with reading Cecil Roberts' books have seen only half his art, as was proved last Saturday evening when he lectured on "A Novelist at Home" to an Abbot Academy audience. His fingers, it seems, are far more useful to him on the lecture platform than they are at the typewriter.

He has a certain knack in using them to illustrate a point that make any lecture of his a most hilarious experience. In describing a landscape, for instance, four fingers waving across a crescent indicate a grove of trees in the background; a single rectangular sweep draws a house, with one upraised finger indicating a chimney with its inevitable column of smoke; a few more passes, and you might just as well

MEN WANTED

Between 10 and 15 volunteers are needed to help on additional first aid and ambulance units under the local medical defense committee. Ballardvale and West Andover must be represented in the group.

First aid training will be provided by the committee. Details may be had from Dr. Nathaniel Stowers, 189 Main street, telephone 804-M or 804-W.

Six More Local Men Inducted

Six Andover men and one from North Andover left for the Boston selective service headquarters yesterday morning as the latest draft contingent sent by Local Board 3. The local men were David R. Petrie of the Aberdeen apartments; Edward Albert Fraize of 87 Pine street, Walter Francis McDonald of 8 Chestnut street, George Edward Flint of Bailey road, Frank O'Brien, Jr., of 34 Phillips street, and Wilfred Henry Blanchette of 40 Beacon street.

First Lenten Vespers Sunday

The first of a series of union Lenten services to be held this season in each of Andover's churches will take place this Sunday afternoon at the Free church. The pastors of the Baptist, West, South and Free churches and Cochran chapel will take part in the service, and an extensive program of sacred music will be sung by the Andover Male Choir with J. Everett Collins as director; Marion L. Abbott, pianist; and Raymond L. Wilkinson, organist.

The complete program for Sunday's service:

Swear In 55 As Auxiliary Police

Fifty-five members of Andover's auxiliary police force were formally sworn in at the town house last Monday evening, marking the conclusion of the intensive course of instruction given them since shortly after the outbreak of the war.

Following the brief ceremony, the group witnessed several moving pictures and slides depicting departmental work under actual war-time conditions in England, at Balmoral Hall, Shawsheen. Two incendiary bombs which fell on dry-docks at Swansea, Wales, and Newport, England, were also exhibited there.

A final meeting is to be held next Tuesday evening at the usual time. Later, the corps will be split up into six precinct details. Sometime before the coming Andover blackout, they will be called out for practice in patrolling their assigned beats, and during the blackout itself, all auxiliary officers will be on duty.

Close Contest For Public Works

Andover had an exciting two hours Tuesday night after one of the quietest elections it has seen in several decades. Five precincts had been reported at 9:30, giving clear pluralities in all contests except the Board of Public Works. At that time, the standing for the two vacancies was: Fred W. Doyle, 1308; George R. Cairns, 922; Jesse Bottomley, 905. Doyle was obviously elected, but the contest for the other vacancy on the board would be settled by the vote of Precinct 1, which had not as yet reported. Not until 11:10 were the tallies released for the last precinct, and its vote gave Cairns 232, Bottomley 344 for a decisive margin of victory.

Bottomley's win came as a complete surprise to most local election followers, as he has been a local resident only during the past four years, and had done no active campaigning for the office.

Roy E. Hardy was re-elected selectman with a margin of 763 votes over his opponent, P. Leroy Wilson. The outcome of this race was never in doubt, as Mr. Hardy had better than a two to one margin after the vote of the first three precincts was recorded. Edward P. Hall won the contest for the unexpired term as selectman by nearly 650 votes, his nearest opponent being Stafford A. Lindsay. Winsor Gale received 1176 votes over 893 for Atty. Carl S. Gregg for the library trusteeship.

There were no contests for four vacancies on the school committee. John MacKenzie of 47 Elm street was elected to the existing vacancy on the committee by 2143 votes; re-elected for full terms were Arthur R. Lewis, 2409; Mrs. Julie S. Musk, 2249; and Harold T. Houston, 2177.

Savings Bank Elects Assistant Treasurer

The Board of Trustees of the Andover Savings Bank announce the election of Mr. F. Howard Porter, Jr., to the position of assistant treasurer.

After his graduation from Dartmouth College, Mr. Porter studied at the Harvard School of Business Administration, and later accepted employment with a New York bank. For the past several years he has been associated with the New Milford Savings Bank, New Milford, Conn., and is well fitted for the responsibilities of his new position.

It is expected that Mr. Porter will assume his duties at the Andover Savings Bank about April 15th.

I wish to thank the voters of Andover for the splendid vote given me in my successful election to the Board of Public Works. I am deeply grateful for the vote and also for the assistance of all those who supported my candidacy in any way.

My actions and conduct will be such as to merit your trust and confidence.

Signed:

FRED W. DOYLE,

THE AN

Expect Short Town Meeting

With only about 38 more or less special articles on the docket, a good many of which are scarcely of controversial nature, a short and speedy town meeting is forecast for Monday night.

The question of increased salaries for all town employees is probably the most important of the meeting. No special article is contained on the advisability of such an increase, but raises in pay for all town departments are included in their budgets under Article 4. It is believed that a motion may be made at the beginning of the discussion on this article that the question of a unified increase be settled at the outset rather than approved or disapproved under each budget item.

The town finance committee, several weeks ago, published a report stating that its recommendations "do not include any increases in wages over the amount paid during 1941," since it is its opinion "that the employees of the town should receive an increase, but that the amount should be determined by the voters." A wage boost of which it approves will add over $20,000 to the year's expenses, roughly $1.50 on the tax rate.

No articles in the warrant deal with defense appropriations. However, a large amount of the reserve fund allocated at the end of the meeting will probably be earmarked for defense purposes.

Road acceptances, as is customary, will form a major topic of discussion, no less than fifteen articles dealing with acceptances of roads and in most cases of their drainage and sewerage facilities. Considerable opposition is expected on the acceptance of certain roads because of their drainage construction or lack of it.

As usual, the meeting will begin at 7:00 in the Memorial Auditorium.

November Club Notes

Ellouise Baker Larsen will lecture on "Historical Staffordshire" next Monday afternoon at 3:00 before November club members and their guests. Mrs. Larsen is an outstanding authority on Staffordshire china, and has assembled a tangible and valuable part of American historical source material in her collection of this "old blue" china. Its transfer printed scenes and portraits preserve evidence of events and pictures about which other records have become extinct.

Mrs. Frank Mansfield Taylor's next lecture will take place in the clubhouse Wednesday morning at 9:45.

S. A. R. ELECTS OFFICERS

At a meeting at the Thatched Roof in North Andover last Thursday evening, the Merimack Valley chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution elected the following officers: Paul A. L'Antigua, president; Leslie F. Powers, vice-president; Paul W. Hinch, secretary; and Charles W. Tucker, treasurer. Captain Wesley Patten, president of the state society, administered the oath of allegiance, and five new members were received into the chapter.

Mr. and Mrs. Van E. Tyler of Springfield have taken a suite in the Aberdeen apartments.

Make Plans For Outdoor Opera

Local music-lovers will have another opportunity to hear Horace Killam's group of young singers present a Gilbert and Sullivan opera, come next August, according to arrangements begun at Mr. Killam's home on Porter road Saturday evening.

A reunion of the cast of "The Mikado," which was presented at the Opera Garden last summer, was held at that time. Guests were present from Peabody, Ipswich, Groveland, Georgetown, Bradford, Haverhill and Andover.

Mr. Killam will be assisted in managing the Opera Gardens this season by three partners: his son, Horace, Jr., as president; John W. Mello of Georgetown, vice-president; and another son, Dwight D. Killam as secretary. Mr. Killam will be treasurer.

"The Pirates of Penzance," by Gilbert and Sullivan, has been chosen for this year's performance. Leads are already being selected, and any singers interested in taking part, either as leads or in the chorus, should get in touch with any of the officers listed above. High school singers are especially desired, and there will be choruses of pirates and policemen for tenors and basses.

Rehearsals will begin the latter part of June, and the performances are scheduled for August 17, 19 and 21.

League Holds Study Group On Town Affairs

The town affairs study group of the Andover League of Women Voters, under the direction of Mrs. John B. Little, is sponsoring a tour of places in Andover discussed in various articles of this year's town warrant. Cars will leave the Memorial Hall library at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and Andover women are urged to get a first-hand view of the matters and places which will be the subject of their votes Monday.

Next Wednesday, at 3:00, in the library, the town affairs group will hold a discussion on "Andover Schools in Theory and Practice," led by Miss Anne Harnedy, principal of the Shawsheen school. Members are asked to note the change in day from today to March 11.

Let's Show Them

"That manly, straightforward, sober, patriotic old New England town!"

There have been times when the praise bestowed upon Andover in that well-known phrase of Phillips Brooks' has rested heavily on our shoulders. Monday night at town meeting, let us show we can earn that praise.

Part of Andover has been showing that it is manly. It's the younger part. Our boys have entered the services with an eagerness to show the Nazis and the Japs that Democracy is willing to fight for its existence. They gave scant thought to themselves, of how little they'd make in the service, of the hardships they'd have to endure. Perhaps more thought they gave to us, remaining here at home; perhaps their main thought was to do their bit to see that we here at home can go on enjoying the life of freedom that our ancestors gave us.

Yes, our ancestors gave it to us, and our boys are going to keep it for us. And what are we going to do?

Monday night let us show that we can deserve the "patriotic" part of that praise. Let us show that we too are willing to sacrifice in our own little way—and it is little, too, mighty little, compared to the sacrifice that the rest of the world has made, the sacrifice in which our own boys will share. Wouldn't it be silly, wouldn't it be tragic, to waste our time even talking Monday night about spending money on things that we don't need? Wouldn't it be more patriotic, more sober, more straightforward for us to show our young men we appreciate their manliness, show them by being willing to give up the once-necessary but now-luxurious services that the town has been offering us, give them up so that the money we save in lower taxes we can invest in National Defense Bonds, to give those boys the tools they'll need for their job.

Try to keep the rate down to $30.00? Why not do a real job and bring it down to $28? It can't be done? Yes, it can, if we only show that we have half or even a tenth of the courage and the willingness to sacrifice that our young men have had. And when town meeting is over, how are we going to feel? Are we going to go out into the night air feeling proud of ourselves for having done a good job of saving when saving was never more necessary—or shall we feel deep within ourselves that by agreeing to spend money on unnecessary things we have broken faith with a mighty fine bunch of young men, clad in khaki, who some day soon are going to show the Japs and the Nazis what Americans are made of. Let us here at home show them, too.

A Prayer

Moderator Fred Butler was wondering at the town house on election night just whom he would ask to lead the town meeting in prayer this year, and it set us to thinking. Remember Papa Sycamore in "You Can't Take It With You?" Remember that homely little before-the-meal grace: "Well, sir, here we are again—?"

"Well, Sir, here we are again. We've been here before, 'n' had a lot of fun, 'n' maybe one or two of us at times has got a bit riled up at one another. But, by and large, we done purty good at these town meetings of ours.

"Well, Sir—it's not like it used to be this year. We feel different somehow, 'way down deep inside; we feel 'sif our little town meeting this year is sumptin' bigger than a town meeting. We feel we've got a mighty big job ahead of us, one that we're going to have to work like the very blazes at. There's those men in the other countries, men that lost sight of You, and they've kicked up a heap of trouble around this world of ours. We've got to kick up a heap of trouble for them, so that some day purty soon we can come back to this here auditorium and welcome back those boys of ours who've gone away to show them what we here in America are made of.

"Well, Sir, I guess that's about all. Please make us use our horse sense when we vote tonight, and if you can do anything about it, keep the speeches short—and to the p'int. And most of all, when in a few minutes Fred here leads us in the salute to the flag, let us pledge more than allegiance this time—let us promise to keep that flag flying all through the long night that's here ahead of us, keep it flying by fighting and by working and by sacrificing.

"Guess that's all, Sir—and oh, yes, thanks—thanks for letting us come here tonight. There ain't many the world over who can gather together to talk things over. We're mighty proud that we can do this, and we're going to keep right on doing it. That's what we're fighting for."

Congratulations

We did very well Monday. Usually people congratulate the winner in an election. This year Andover won.

They're a pretty fine set of officers. And we know they'll do a good job. Our part is to have confidence in them, and to help them in every way possible.

Let's Not Waste Time

If we spend too much time on some things Monday night, we won't have enough left to spend on others that deserve some time. Therefore, here's hoping two things:

(1) That the salary question is settled once and for all before a single appropriation is made. To leave it wide open for a wrangle on each department's budget would mean a bad waste of time, and in these days time is precious. So let's vote a policy at the outset of the meeting, and let that policy dictate the amount to be spent in the various budgets.

(2) That some clear policy is established beforehand on street acceptances. At the last meeting the average voter didn't know what was what, and he wasn't too sure that the officials did—if they did, there was something wrong somewhere because some officials had a different slant on it than others. So let's get together this time before town meeting, and find out once and for all who is supposed to do what before a street should be accepted by the town.

This Sober Town

Have you been trying to find the pleasant hamlet of "Sans Origine" on your map lately? Lots of people have, according to Walter Simon, manager of the local Western Union office. They find the name on the dateline of a cablegram and then, after much thumbing through atlases, call up to ask Mr. Simon where in thunder the place is.

Of course, "Sans Origine" doesn't exist; it's merely a French term meaning "No place of origin"—or something. Generally inserted in cablegrams from American soldiers to their families, it is used to prevent information on troop movements or stations from falling into the wrong hands.

So "Sans Origine" is neither in Iceland, Ireland, or the Philippines, as some are wont to insist. And the fact that it is a French phrase doesn't mean that some of our boys are in France, either; most standard phrases used in international communications of this sort are expressed in French.

"Somewhere in Libya," of course, isn't a mythical term; it's just "somewhere in Libya," and let's let it go at that.

* * *

Strange as it seems, the newspaper feature called "Strange As It Seems" may shortly contain an item about the Deyermund boys, all sons of popular Patrolman John Deyermund, now serving in all branches of the armed forces. Warren Harding Deyermund is at present drill instructor of the 6th platoon, recruit depot, at the Marine barracks on Parris Island, S. C. Calvin Coolidge Deyermund is with the quartermaster's aviation detachment, army air corps, at Dow Field, Bangor, Maine. James is a Navy man, and returned home Sunday after undergoing his preliminary training at Norfolk, Va. Sgt. Bill Deyermund, 182d Infantry, Yankee Division, is with an expeditionary force somewhere—naturally, we can't go into the details. Still another son, Bob, is with the State Guard, local company D.

Leatherneck Warren recently sent home a poem currently being circulated about the typical Parris Island Marine, the last quatrain of which reads:

"When he gets to Heaven,
To St. Peter he will tell
'Another Marine reporting, sir;
I've served my time
(at Parris Island, S. C.)"

Speaker Warns Of Post-War Problems

That we should immediately give serious consideration to employment problems certain to come up after the war is the opinion of Roland R. Darling of the Y. M. C. A. Job Hunters Club of Boston, as expressed by him before a gathering of about 58 members of the Merrimack Valley Guidance Association at the Andover Inn Monday evening. It is highly essential, he said, that high school boys and girls be trained to look ahead to a more dubious future than exists at present, and to secure training that will guarantee them permanent and gainful employment.

Even at the present time, he added, when conditions are at their best, there is no shortage of unskilled labor comparable to that in skilled labor. Even if there is no depression immediately following this war, as there was in 1920-21, there will be a period of adjustment and regression corresponding to the terrific expansion program which, after nearly two years, is still only partly carried out.

None the less, conditions are ideal for the properly trained young man or woman now starting out to forge a career. Mr. Darling pointed out that 20 men behind the lines are needed to keep a single soldier in action.

A symposium was held on the subject, "The Colleges of the Merrimack Valley," during which representatives of nine colleges spoke of the part played by each in training students for service in the present crisis, and of their consequent heavy demands upon secondary schools. Schools represented in the discussion were the University of New Hampshire, St. Anselm's College, Colby Junior College, Bradford Junior College, Green Mountain and Stoneleigh Junior colleges, Lowell and Salem State Teachers colleges and the Lowell Textile Institute.

Demonstrate Raid Emergency Services

What Andover might look like in the event of an air raid, and just how its relief measures would be put into operation, was effectively demonstrated in a realistic enactment of such a raid put on by the local medical defense committee the past Tuesday and Wednesday evenings in the Memorial Auditorium.

Realism in the demonstration was heightened by the use of on-stage telephones, special lighting and sound effects and a running commentary delivered through an amplifying system by Douglas S. Byers, committee chairman. Present during the performances, carrying out their roles exactly as they may be called upon to do during an actual air raid, were large groups of air raid wardens, members of the auxiliary police and fire departments and first aid and rescue squad workers.

Members of the medical units set up a complete field hospital on the stage, and patients received emergency treatment for all types of injuries especially common in war-time. "Serious" cases were taken to the Isham Infirmary at Phillips Academy, which has been established as the local base hospital.

Dr. Edgar Snow of Newburyport, chairman of medical defense for this district, witnessed the demonstration Tuesday night with the local defense heads, and offered his congratulations in a brief address at its conclusion. He said that all the Andover groups participating seemed to be particularly well-trained, and that, even if the war had not made such elaborate defense preparations imperative, they would have proved valuable in such emergencies as a bad flood or a serious fire. Dr. John J. Hartigan, chief medical officer for Andover, said that he hoped that such demonstrations could be presented periodically in order to keep up the morale and confidence of the townspeople.

Abbot Academy Notes

A studio tea was held in the John Esther Gallery yesterday afternoon in honor Dr. Royal S. Farnum, director, and Gerald Mast of the fresco department of the Rhode Island School of Design in Providence. Various examples of student work in every department of this school will be on exhibit in the Gallery from now until the beginning of spring vacation on March 19. Dr. Farnum talked to the students yesterday on the exhibit and on the plan and purpose of the school.

Because of revised spring schedules at boys' schools and colleges, the Senior Prom is being held this week-end instead of the last week in April, when it has been held heretofore. There will be a tea from four to six on Saturday, the prom itself beginning at 8 and a buffet supper served some time during the evening. The beautiful new dining room will serve as the setting for this annual event at Abbot. Boys who come from a distance to attend the dance will accompany their hostesses to church on Sunday morning, after which they will be guests of the school for dinner.

WHERE TO GO WHAT TO DO

TOMORROW—Bakery Sale By Shawsheen Women's Club

"Food will win the war," they said in 1917, and the Shawsheen Village Women's Club will try to prove tomorrow that it can help win this one, though not precisely in the same way. Proceeds from a bakery sale to be held from 2 to 5, in the vacant store in the Aberdeen Apartments, will be used to purchase wood to knit for the boys serving in the armed forces and for other defense purposes. Home-baked bread, cakes, pastry, candy, jelly, pickles—all will go towards the satisfaction both of your appetite and your moral sentiments. Mrs. Arthur E. Steinert and a large committee of club members are conducting arrangements.

TOMORROW—Concert By Community Orchestra

Members of the local community orchestra are making final preparations today for their concert at 8:15 tomorrow evening in the Memorial Auditorium. Soloist for the occasion will be the orchestra's concert-master, Joseph Pulvino of Lawrence, who will play Mendelssohn's violin concerto. Mr. Pulvino, a violinist, is a graduate of the Royal Conservatory in Naples, has played with the San Carlo Symphony Orchestra there and with the San Francisco Federal Symphony Orchestra. He has been concert-master of the Oakland Symphony Orchestra and, as a member of the Berkshire music festival orchestra, has played under the baton of Serge Koussevitsky.

The selections to be played include Haydn's famous drum-roll symphony, a suite by Lully, the Karella Suite by Sibelius and two Indian dances by Charles Sanford Skilton.

In its next to last rehearsal Sunday night, a considerably larger orchestra responded to the baton of George Brown, conductor, its numbers being augmented by various musicians from the surrounding towns. An impressive array of four bull fiddles battled it out, at that time, with five trumpets and, a rarity among amateur orchestras, two oboes and two French horns.

Tickets priced at 60 cents are on sale at Temple's radio shop, rather than at the home of Mrs. J. S. Rarss as previously announced. They may also be purchased at the door. All seats are reserved.

SUNDAY—Lecture On Funny Papers

An illustrated talk on American funny papers is to be given Sunday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock in connection with the exhibits of cartoons by Walt Disney and Francis Dahl of the Boston Herald, currently at the Addison Gallery. The talk is to be given in George Washington hall by Emanuel Winternitz, lecturer at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

The public is welcome to attend the lecture, and the Gallery will be open at the usual schedule from 2:30 to 5:00.

MARCH 12—Legion Oratorical Finals Here

Champion high school orators from all over Essex and Middlesex counties will take part in the zone finals of its nation-wide oratorical contest in the Memorial auditorium next Thursday night. The contestants were chosen in two elimination matches in Lynn and Amesbury Tuesday night, and, of the four who are to take part in the contest in Andover, two will be sent to the state finals at Faneuil Hall, Boston.

Prizes will be awarded each county winner in Thursday's competition. Those who survive the state finals will compete with junior speakers from all over the country for four prizes totalling $7500. The judges will be Mrs. Emma Carter of the Punchard high school faculty, Fred B. Pitkin, superintendent of schools in North Andover, and Robert H. Paradise of the Phillips Academy faculty.

All the addresses will be on subjects connected with the history and content of the American constitution, and will be limited to 12 minutes speaking time. They will be judged equally on the effectiveness of their delivery and the content of the addresses themselves.

Thomas P. Dea of Andover Post 8 is in charge of local arrangements. William Pasky, principal of Lynn high school, is state chairman; William Welch, superintendent of schools in Peabody, county chairman; and John H. Wroe, Waltham clerk of courts, is in charge of contests in this zone. Introduced by Mr. Dea, he will preside at the local competition, which will take place at 8:00 in the Memorial Auditorium. The public is invited to attend, and there will be no admission charge.

MARCH 17—Irish Night At St. Augustine's

Shure and begorra, as the Irish never say, ye might think of manny and manny a more unpleasant way to spend St. Patrick's day this year than at the annual entertainment put on by the pupils of St. Augustine's school in the Memorial Auditorium.

Specialties will include "I Envy McGinty," by Gerald Driscoll—probably the same McGinty who went down to the bottom of the sea, dressed in his best Sunday clothes. The team of Driscoll and Fairburn will offer "A Bit of the Gay Nineties," Dickie Morrissey will do a bit of an Irish jig, Marilyn Mulcahy will recite, and several choral ensembles will offer specialties in full accord with the day.

Cecil Roberts

be looking at a Millet painting in the Louvre.

By such gymnastics and with an unusually clever gift for phrasing, Mr. Roberts told his audience how he happened to purchase his charmingly aged little English cottage from an indifferent young man in Burma, through a befuddled real estat agent and by the demise of a romantic ex-consul and his American spinster sweetheart. He further described how he introduced certain modernities to a 400-year-old dwelling, and how it protested inarticulately against them.

His problems, it seems, were more than those which ordinarily face householders. First, the whole village of Henley-on-Thames thought him quite mad to live in Pilgrim Cottage at all. Second, the house had, during the long centuries, entered a state of petrification which made almost any alteration nearly impossible. (Light switches, for instance, were installed in the floor to be pressed by Mr. Roberts' toe, which, no doubt, is as well educated as his other digits.) Third, his man of all work viewed the whole premises with an affection that made any proposed amendment seem as criminal as secretly bobbing your grandmother's hair.

Pilgrim Cottage goes back to the Elizabethan days when great mansions were being built by upstart merchants and reformed pirates, according to Mr. Roberts. It is quite possible, he said, that a boy helping his father in its construction might have passed a few words with young Bill Shakespeare, off to London to make his fortune. Queen Elizabeth herself, who evidently spent the night in as many historic homes as our own George Washington, might frequently have visited Henley.

Mr. Roberts had little to say about the present war. His own Pilgrim Cottage, he said, may or may not still be standing. Peasants sitting by its broad fireside centuries ago, however, might have answered a thunderous knocking to hear the news that Drake and Fro-bisher had sunk the Armada in the channel. A few generations later, the cottagers might have rushed to their window in dead of night to learn that Marlborough had won at Blenheim, or that Napoleon's army had been finally smashed in Belgium.

"Some evening not too far away," concluded Mr. Roberts, "I hope to turn on the radio in Pilgrim Cottage to hear an unmistakable voice announce: 'My friends—the German plenipotentiaries have just requested our terms for an armistice.'"

Thomas P. Dea, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Dea of 28 Summer street, is on the dean's list for the current marking period at Tufts college. He is a graduate of Phillips Academy.

First Meeting Held By Enlarged Scout Committee

Several new members were introduced at a meeting of the executive board of the North Essex Council, B.S.A., held in the Sanborn library at Punchard high school last Thursday evening. They were Thomas A. Woodhead, committeeman of Cub pack 72 of the Free Church, Dr. Lorentz I. Hansen and P. J. Driscoll, scoutmaster of the new troop being formed for St. Augustine's parish.

It was decided at the meeting that responsibility for civic service projects will be left in the hands of Charles E. Foster, civic service chairman. He will be aided by John D. Little in the emergency messenger and courier service. Calls for service in this district must hereafter clear through the civic service committee.

The committee expects to begin considering shortly the selection of a new scoutmaster for Troop 78 of the Junior high school. Other business transacted included the appointment of Roy E. Hardy as finance committee member to replace Kenneth L. Sherman.

The scout committee on advancement will meet tonight at the Free church, all local scouts being invited to attend.

Andover Mothers' Club

Defense stamps were purchased by all the members at yesterday's meeting of the Andover Mothers' Club. A schedule of activities for the coming month was decided on as follows:

A St. Patrick's dinner party will be held at the Little Red Schoolhouse in North Andover on March 12 at 1:00, and on March 19, at 2:00, at the home of Mrs. Clara Stocks on South Main street. The committee in charge includes Mrs. Bertha Folley, Mrs. Edna Albers, Mrs. Eva Symonds and Mrs. Clara Stocks.

LECTURE ON MOZART'S "MAGIC FLUTE"

In connection with the presentations of the Metropolitan Opera Company in Boston during the latter half of this month Dr. William Reese of Phillips Academy is giving a series of three lectures on Monday evenings at the Y. W. C. A. in Lawrence. The first of these on "Die Walkure" was held last week. This Monday, at 8 o'clock, Dr. Reese will discuss Mozart's masterpiece, "The Magic Flute" which is a novelty of the season in New York and which will be sung in English in Boston. The final lecture will deal with Verdi's "Aida."

SURGICAL DRESSINGS MADE

DEATHS

One of Andover's most versatile residents was Jesse S. Billington, 57, who died Sunday at his home at 56 Highland road. Born August 2, 1885, in Weld, Maine, he moved to Andover at an early age to reside with his step-father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Jones, in what was then known as Scotland district.

Following his schooling here, he served the old Andover Electric company as lineman from 1901 to 1903 under W. H. Coleman. Following a year's employment at Dr. C. H. Shattuck's pharmacy in Ballardvale, he worked till the spring of 1908 in the freight traffic department, Fitchburg division, of the Boston and Maine railroad in Boston.

Falling health forced him to camp out for a time near Prospect Hill, where he was engaged as assistant engineer to John Smith during the construction of the present high-service reservoir during the summer of 1908. In October of that year, he entered the employ of the Smith and Dove Manufacturing company as shipping clerk. He was transferred in 1928 to the Ludlow Associates in Ludlow, where he was employed in the office of production management until 1938. Since his retirement, he had resided here.

In 1910, he formed the first Boy Scout troop in Andover, and over a period of four years, 41 boys were enrolled in it. In 1913, he enjoyed a vacation cruise as the guest of Captain Wallace I. Goodwin on the scoutship Pioneer.

He was a charter member of the Andover Citizens' Rifle Club, formed in 1917, and attained the rank of second lieutenant in Company H, 16th infantry, of the Massachusetts State Guard, serving under the late Dr. Pierson S. Page, captain of the company. Interested in all kinds of firearms, he enjoyed the privilege of being small arms instructor at Phillips Academy during World War I.

He was also a past commander of Walter L. Raymond Camp 111, Sons of Veterans, and marshal of the day during the annual memorial services for many years. Always an active member of the Baptist church, he was president of its Echo Club in 1916, and assistant superintendent of the church school under Perley F. Gilbert. He was a member of St. Matthew's Lodge, A. F. and A. M.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 from the Lundgren funeral home, with services conducted by Rev. Elton E. Smith, pastor. The bearers were Norman McLeish, George Abbott, Harvey Bacon, Charles A. Stone, Ira Buxton and Lewis P. Coates of Dudley.

Honorary bearers were T. A. Thompson, Colver A. Stone, Perley F. Gilbert, Clare W. Norton, Robert H. Brown and Everett Lundgren.

Mrs. Bessie Curtis Smith, widow of Horace Hale Smith, died Sunday at the Broward Hospital in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Her health had been poor for the past year, although she was able to attend many social functions.

Mrs. Smith had resided here for about 25 years until ten years ago, when she moved to Boston, wintering at Fort Lauderdale. Her husband, a well known Lawrence civil engineer, died in Florida three years ago. He was prominent in the affairs of the old Andover canoe club and assisted in the construction of the large launch that carried picnickers on the Shawheen river a few decades ago.

The funeral was held Tuesday at Fort Lauderdale. Mrs. Smith had no local survivors.

Mrs. Mary Christie, 83, died Saturday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William J. Snyder of Baker lane. A native of Dundee, Scotland, she had lived in this country for the past several decades, and in Andover since October.

Miss Catherine Joyce, a former resident of Ballardvale, died in Haverhill Sunday at the age of 97. She is survived by her brother Thomas and several nieces and nephews.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning, with a high mass of requiem at 10 o'clock in St. Mary's church, Lawrence. Burial was in the family lot in Immaculate Conception Cemetery.

News Of Old Andover

50 YEARS AGO. Nathran F. Abbott declined renomination as fence viewer, having served in that capacity for thirty years already... Local stores were to close so their employees could attend town meeting... Most appropriately, a rain-storm caused the postponement of one Rev. Mr. Puddlefoot's lecture... "Shenandoah," known as the "great war drama," was to be presented in Lawrence... George S. Cole retired from carpentry to devote his full time to being deputy sheriff, auctioneer and real estate agent... You could hear that Free church phonograph in any part of the town hall... Prohibition in Biddeford, Me., was quite a farce, Rev. William Rader concluded after touring the city in the relatively innocent guise of a revenue agent... Robert Taylor moved from Marland Village. Too many autograph fiends... This time it took three days for the street cars to get up the Hill.

25 YEARS AGO. Phillips Academy authorities substituted military training for compulsory athletics, expected 300 students to enroll... J. Everett Collins became baritone in the quartet of the Trinity Congregational church, Lawrence... N. E. Bartlett returned safely from a wartime business trip to London... Rubber tires by Tyer Rubber were much in demand... The new post office building was nearly completed... A sleighing party came all the way down from Georgetown...

Rowland H. Lindsay won a set of pearl studs, and Harry Sellars and Edward King split a box of cigars, at the Andover Club's whist party... Whist finals were also to be held between the Workmen and the Odd Fellows. Dean George R. Brown of Yale was to speak on "The Greatest Man of the 19th Century"—quite a large order... The Arkansas Supreme Court decided that to kiss a lady against her will was assault and battery.

10 YEARS AGO. The membership drive of the new Taxpayers Association resulted in 145 enrollments... Miss Betty Cole, a leap-year baby, celebrated one of her few birthdays on February 29... A man named Howell F. Shepard was running for Board of Health... Water and sewage for the proposed state institution would cost $89,000... It was revealed that the state wouldn't agree to pay the whole cost of those new traffic lights in Shawsheen anyway, so that Selectman Frank Hardy wasn't wasting the taxpayers' money by offering to pay half... Mr. and Mrs. David Black, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thomas and Charles J. Roche were all in St. Petersburg, Fla., which boasted that even the "boom days" were never like this... Lionel Barrymore had the leading role in "The Man I Killed." For shame, Dr. Gillespie!

News Of Old Andover

50 YEARS AGO. Nathan F. Abbott declined renomination as fence viewer, having served in that capacity for thirty years already... Local stores were to close so their employees could attend town meeting... Most appropriately, a rain-storm caused the postponement of one Rev. Mr. Puddlefoot's lecture... "Shenandoah," known as the "great war drama," was to be presented in Lawrence... George S. Cole retired from carpentry to devote his full time to being deputy sheriff, auctioneer and real estate agent... You could hear that Free church phonograph in any part of the town hall... Prohibition in Biddeford, Me., was quite a farce, Rev. William Rader concluded after touring the city in the relatively innocent guise of a revenue agent... Robert Taylor moved from Marland Village. Too many autograph fiends... This time it took three days for the street cars to get up the Hill.

25 YEARS AGO. Phillips Academy authorities substituted military training for compulsory athletics, expected 300 students to enroll... J. Everett Collins became baritone in the quartet of the Trinity Congregational church, Lawrence... N. E. Bartlett returned safely from a wartime business trip to London... Rubber tires by Tyer Rubber were much in demand... The new post office building was nearly completed... A sleighing party came all the way down from Georgetown...

Rowland H. Lindsay won a set of pearl studs, and Harry Sellars and Edward King split a box of cigars, at the Andover Club's whist party... Whist finals were also to be held between the Workmen and the Odd Fellows. Dean George R. Brown of Yale was to speak on "The Greatest Man of the 19th Century"—quite a large order... The Arkansas Supreme Court decided that to kiss a lady against her will was assault and battery.

10 YEARS AGO. The membership drive of the new Taxpayers Association resulted in 145 enrollments... Miss Betty Cole, a leap-year baby, celebrated one of her few birthdays on February 29... A man named Howell F. Shepard was running for Board of Health... Water and sewage for the proposed state institution would cost $89,000... It was revealed that the state wouldn't agree to pay the whole cost of those new traffic lights in Shawsheen anyway, so that Selectman Frank Hardy wasn't wasting the taxpayers' money by offering to pay half... Mr. and Mrs. David Black, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thomas and Charles J. Roche were all in St. Petersburg, Fla., which boasted that even the "boom days" were never like this... Lionel Barrymore had the leading role in "The Man I Killed." For shame, Dr. Gillespie!

4-H Club Notes

The members of the 4-H Garden Club met Monday evening at the home of Rev. David I. Segerstrom. Plans were made by the boys to enter various farm contests. The members are busy collecting paper to be sold, the money realized being used by the organization.

Boy Scouts Meeting

At a meeting Monday evening of Troop 76, Boy Scouts, badges were distributed and plans made for an exhibit for the Scoutorama to be held at the Boys' Club in Lawrence, April 6 and 7. The meeting was adjourned early in order that the boys might accept the invitation given by Rev. David Segerstrom to join the 4-H group at his home.

Little folks present were Kenneth and Allan Lurvy, Larry and Russell Lewis, Glenn Peatman, Sonny and Sandra Asoian, Herbert Kearn, Faith Henderson, Roger Johnson, and Douglas and Lester Dixon.

Mrs. Carl Stevens and Shirley have returned to their home on High Plain road after spending a week with relatives in Braintree, Vt.

Miss Evelyn Dow has returned to her duty at the Cherry and Webb store after enjoying a week's winter vacation.

Miss Gertrude Batchelder of Argilla road spent the past week with her cousin in Arlington.

Exhibit At John Esther

Now being shown at the John Esther gallery is a new exhibition by students of the Rhode Island School of Design. This is the second exhibit of its kind to be held at the gallery; the first, held last spring, was a student show of the Boston Museum School of Fine Arts. The purpose of such an exhibition is to bring to students a better knowledge of the function and purpose of an art school, and of the part such a school plays in contemporary life.

The show ranges from technical engineering to the fine arts, and includes a set of gears and drive shafts, architectural plates and hand woven textiles, as well as portraits and sculptures.

Tendered Farewell Party

A farewell party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fraser of Fletcher street for David R. Petrie of 354 North Main street, advertising manager of the Townsman, who was inducted into the army with yesterday's contingent. Mr. Petrie was presented with a wrist watch by a large number of friends present, and dancing and an entertainment were enjoyed.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Fraser and Mrs. George Petrie.

CALL B. P. W FOR AIR-RAID SAND

Sand for air-raid purposes has been placed by the Board of Public Work in seventeen different places around town, in an endeavor to supply the townspeople with enough to handle possible incendiaries.

The Board has tried to locate the piles as near as possible to the places where people will find them most convenient. However, if any little section feels that it should have some, the department would be willing to dump half a load in that section provided permission could be gotten for a suitable dumping place.
